Thank you. You help create meaningful change for students. Your gift to the Black Alumni Council Endowed Scholarship or Emergency Fund allows the Black Alumni Council (BAC) to carry out its mission of recruiting and retaining exceptional African-American students who otherwise might not be able to attend Washington University or complete their studies once enrolled. Your support truly makes a difference.

The Black Alumni Council

Since our founding in 1983, the BAC has provided professional and personal development for black students and alumni, who increase the university's diversity not only of ethnicity but also of culture, background, experience, and perspective. We also help the university recruit and retain African-American students, in part by offering scholarships and funds for unanticipated emergencies.

Our WashU community is more inclusive than at any time in our storied history, but there is still work to be done. Your participation is essential in this effort.

The Black Alumni Council Endowed Scholarship

In February 1993, the BAC established the Black Alumni Council Endowed Scholarship to provide resources for full-time WashU undergraduates in good academic standing.

The Black Alumni Council Emergency Fund

These resources help full-time students who experience unanticipated financial need. Your gift of $100 or more qualifies you for membership in an Annual Fund giving club, and gifts of $1,000 or more are recognized with membership in the William Greenleaf Eliot Society.

THANK

for matching your gift!

You went out of your way to match your generous gift to Washington University, and we can't thank you enough.

Your contribution went to work immediately to help support the university's mission of teaching, research, and service to society, and now your employer's matching funds will multiply your gift's impact.

Last year, corporate matching gifts added more than $1.2 million to the Annual Fund!

With support from generous donors like you, our students and faculty make discoveries, improve lives, and change the world every day. Keep up with what's new and exciting at WashU at source.wustl.edu!

#GIVINGTUESDAY

Reassure students that their future is bright!

December 1 is #GivingTuesday, and we ask you to join the global philanthropic movement as a member of the WashU community.

Our faculty, staff, and students have continued to carry out the university's mission in this year of uncertainty. While their commitment to education, research, and clinical care is unwavering, their needs are great. You can support them by making a gift to a specific school, program, or scholarship, or you can address students' most urgent needs by contributing to the WashU Crisis Response Fund. No matter which area you choose, your gift will go to work immediately to help provide stability and hope to those creating a better future for all of us.

To encourage you to participate, John Altmix, BS '94, BS '94, MBA '94, and Diane Altmix, MBA '93, are kicking off #GivingTuesday with a $125,000 gift for scholarships, challenging 1,000 of their fellow alumni and WashU supporters to join them in giving.

Help us reach our goal and make an invaluable WashU education possible for more students!

WE MAKE GREAT STRIDES when we work together.

Take part in the Annual Fund today.

Last year, 51,945 alumni, parents, and friends participated in the Annual Fund. This collective generosity made a real difference for Washington University students in the form of scholarships and fellowships, rigorous academic programs, groundbreaking research opportunities, and extensive health and wellness programs. Students need support and encouragement from the WashU community now more than ever. Make an annual gift today to help provide the resources that allow them to excel in their studies and face the challenges of an unpredictable world.

Help WashU put its best foot forward. Every contribution—large or small—goes to work immediately to help the university address pressing needs, and you can designate the school, program, or scholarship that will benefit. When you make a gift of any amount, you will receive a pair of limited-edition socks featuring the WashU logo and Bear! The mid-calf-length socks come in two sizes and are made from 88% cotton, 9% polyester, and 3% elastane.

Give online at alumni.wustl.edu/socks, call 877-215-2727 and choose option 3, or mail your payment in the enclosed postage-paid envelope today. Hurry! Socktoberfest ends October 31. Please allow 4–6 weeks for delivery.

Help students tackle a First Day and fall semester like no other.

Picture your first day at Washington University. You probably see smiling faces, group hugs, and classrooms full of nervous strangers. Maybe you remember walking through the underpass from the South 40, seeing Brookings tower over the Quad, meeting friends at Olin Library, or wondering what “the bunny” is pondering near Graham Chapel. These iconic landmarks remain, but First Day will look and feel very different this year.

Faculty and staff have been working tirelessly to welcome students back to campus safely and prepare for a meaningful—if atypical—WashU experience this fall. But students are going to need support from our entire WashU community on First Day and beyond. As an alum who has walked in their shoes and benefited from a WashU education, you have a unique opportunity to offer encouragement, share why you love the university, and voice support for your future fellow alumni. Please join us on Monday, September 14, to welcome students back and help them have a great First Day!

When we give,
we create a brighter tomorrow.

November 30 is #GivingTuesday

Please join Washington University to celebrate an inspirational day of philanthropy! When we give, we not only create scholarships that allow students to attend, we provide resources for the many programs and opportunities that help them thrive in our WashU community.

We can have a collective impact on #GivingTuesday.

Be one of 1,500 supporters who contribute any amount, and you'll help secure a substantial matching gift from a generous donor. And if you give $15 or more, you'll receive a special thank-you gift.

Keep an eye on your email and social media for more details and mark your calendar for Tuesday, November 30!

My mom was so grateful for all that WashU did for me and the ways they cared for me, loved me for who I was, and pushed me to be better. That's part of why she gives and why I decided to give as part of my Senior Class Gift.

I was so grateful for my experience, and I couldn't have imagined anything better. And if I can help add to a fund that creates scholarships for new students, that is one of the most incredible gifts I could give.

– Irene Hamlin, AB '21

Go to giving.wustl.edu/loyalty or scan the QR code on the reverse to renew your support and read more about Susan's and Irene's Washington University story. If you've recently made a gift, thank you!

Dear Susan Hamlin,

When my daughter, Irene Hamlin, AB '21, was a junior at Washington University, I realized a long-held dream of earning a master's degree in legal studies at the School of Law. I was looking forward to Commencement in May 2020, but that finale to my studies had to be postponed. More than a year later, in May 2021, I was able to participate with my daughter in the 160th and 161st Commencement ceremonies! It was a silver lining in a difficult year and a joyful celebration of our shared WashU journey.

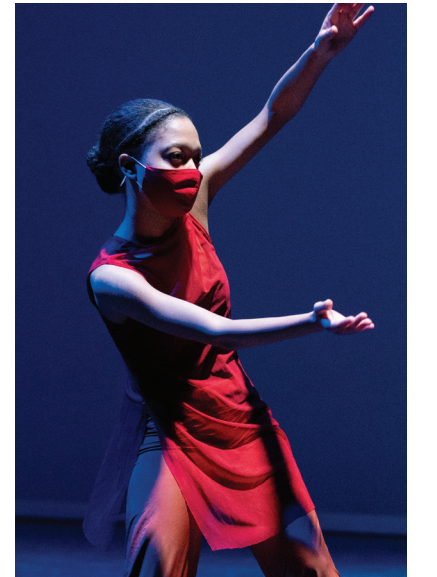

I've been giving back to the university since Irene's first year on campus in appreciation of the countless opportunities available to her. Irene received a world-class education, leading to her acceptance at a prestigious medical school. This was only possible because so many generous donors gave to WashU. Although we don't have the means to make a large gift, we give back to show our gratitude and to help another student along the way.

Thank you for making a gift in 2020–21. You are now eligible to join me in the Washington University Loyalty Society, a group of alumni who provide flexible resources the university relies on each year. Simply contribute any amount to any area of the university to become a member. Please give today to help create life-changing experiences for today's students!

With gratitude,

Susan Hamlin, MLS '19

Thank you for your loyalty!

The Washington University Loyalty Society recognizes and honors the steadfast donors we count on each year. Alumni, current students, and former medical residents and fellows who contribute any amount to WashU for two consecutive fiscal years* are enrolled automatically and remain members with each continuous annual gift.

You helped strengthen the university's excellence in education, research, and patient care—and became a member—by making a gift last year. Thank you and welcome!

To show our appreciation, we've created an exclusive Loyalty Society digital desktop calendar for you to download at alumni.wustl.edu/Calendar. Loyalty Society members are recognized during WashU Reunion and receive commemorative pins at their 5-, 10-, 15-, 25-, and 50-year giving anniversaries.

We are grateful for your dedication to Washington University and happy to count you as a new member of the Loyalty Society!

If you have questions about your giving history or Loyalty Society membership, email loyaltysociety@wustl.edu or call 877-215-2727 and choose option 2.
