“Had I not received the
Black Alumni Council
Endowed Scholarship,
I would not have been able to attend this wonderful institution. I am humbled by your enormous generosity.

Thank you.”

Thank you. You help create meaningful change for students. Your gift to the Black Alumni Council Endowed Scholarship or Emergency Fund allows the Black Alumni Council (BAC) to carry out its mission of recruiting and retaining exceptional African-American students who otherwise might not be able to attend Washington University or complete their studies once enrolled. Your support truly makes a difference.

The Black Alumni Council

Since our founding in 1983, the BAC has provided professional and personal development for black students and alumni, who increase the university's diversity not only of ethnicity but also of culture, background, experience, and perspective. We also help the university recruit and retain African-American students, in part by offering scholarships and funds for unanticipated emergencies.

Our WashU community is more inclusive than at any time in our storied history, but there is still work to be done. Your participation is essential in this effort.

The Black Alumni Council Endowed Scholarship

In February 1993, the BAC established the Black Alumni Council Endowed Scholarship to provide resources for full-time WashU undergraduates in good academic standing.

The Black Alumni Council Emergency Fund

These resources help full-time students who experience unanticipated financial need. Your gift of $100 or more qualifies you for membership in an Annual Fund giving club, and gifts of $1,000 or more are recognized with membership in the William Greenleaf Eliot Society.
