My mom was so grateful for all that WashU did for me and the ways they cared for me, loved me for who I was, and pushed me to be better. That's part of why she gives and why I decided to give as part of my Senior Class Gift.

I was so grateful for my experience, and I couldn't have imagined anything better. And if I can help add to a fund that creates scholarships for new students, that is one of the most incredible gifts I could give.

Dear Susan Hamlin,

When my daughter, Irene Hamlin, AB '21, was a junior at Washington University, I realized a long-held dream of earning a master's degree in legal studies at the School of Law. I was looking forward to Commencement in May 2020, but that finale to my studies had to be postponed. More than a year later, in May 2021, I was able to participate with my daughter in the 160th and 161st Commencement ceremonies! It was a silver lining in a difficult year and a joyful celebration of our shared WashU journey.

I've been giving back to the university since Irene's first year on campus in appreciation of the countless opportunities available to her. Irene received a world-class education, leading to her acceptance at a prestigious medical school. This was only possible because so many generous donors gave to WashU. Although we don't have the means to make a large gift, we give back to show our gratitude and to help another student along the way.

Thank you for making a gift in 2020–21. You are now eligible to join me in the Washington University Loyalty Society, a group of alumni who provide flexible resources the university relies on each year. Simply contribute any amount to any area of the university to become a member. Please give today to help create life-changing experiences for today's students!

With gratitude,

Susan Hamlin, MLS '19
